BOT-5 Career & Professional Development at UNCG

Dr. Nicole Hall, Director of the Career & Professional Development division within Student Affairs division, will provide an overview of the resources her team offers to prepare UNCG students for the job market. Dr. Hall recently shared this information with Syngenta, a corporate partner that collaborates on projects with academic units at UNCG and hires our students for internships and full-time employment.

Dr. Hall has served in her current role for six years. Previously, she was executive director of market readiness and employment with Wake Forest University’s School of Business. She also served as executive director of alumni and career services at Pepperdine University’s Graziadio Business School. Hall is a member of the National Association of Colleges and Employers board of directors and in that capacity provides strategic policy, direction, and financial oversight for the global professional association comprised of 14,000 members who support, develop, and employ the college educated workforce.

Hall earned her B.S. in Marketing from Indiana University, her MBA from Pepperdine University, and her PhD in Educational Leadership and Cultural Studies at UNC Greensboro.
